How to play?

Goal of the game

Each player (Bumblebee or Osmia) must send more bees than his opponent on each flower to gather pollen.

Set up

- 1 Put the 5 Flowers cards in the center of the table, side by side between the 2 players.
- 2 10 Goals cards are mixed and each player receives one that he looks secretly, and secretly.
- 3 A player receives a set of Osmia cards and the other one Bumblebee cards set. The Osmia player (red) also takes the first player card, which he places next to him on the side «Bees». Each player shuffles his set of cards and places it face down in front of him in order to have a personal pick, before taking the first 3 cards and keep them on hand.

Playing the game

Players play one after the other.

There is 5 type of actions:

- Place one Bee card face up on my side: I put one card from my hand in my side.
- Place one card face up on the opposing side*: I put a card from my hand in the opposite side.
- Place one card face down on my side*: I put a card from my hand on my side, face down. I will not have the right to watch it during the rest of the party.
- Discard a card: I throw a card from my hand to the discard pile, face up.
- Making a Move on my side: I discard face up one Moving card from my hand and moves a card of my kind already played (visible or hidden) from one location to the right, left, or diagonally, in my camp. If another card of my kind is the place where I would move my card, so I swapped the 2. Attention, I can not move a card of the opponent.

At my turn, I HAVE to do two of this actions (or one twice) but (*) if I play on opposite side or if I play face down, then I play only once.

At the end of my turn, I complete my 3-card hand by drawing 1 or 2 cards in my deck.

Example :

1. During his turn, the Bumblebees player uses its 2 actions to put a «3» face up on his side (1a) and for movement (1b) : he can move his card «1» already played a location on the left, or reverse it with the cards '3' on the right, or diagonally. He can not move his card down because it would create a hole ✗. He then draws two cards.
2. Then the player Osmia uses action to put his «4» card on the opponent side before drawing a card (2). His turn is over, he only draws ONE card.

Règles importantes :

- Whatever the actions performed in your turn, you should never end with a «hole» between two cards in a column.
- It can not be more than 3 Bee cards in front of a flower in each side (meaning 6 cards on an entire column).

End of the game

If the first player has no more card in his hand, then his opponent plays one last time and the round is over. If this is the second player who has no more cards in hand, the round is at once over.

Scoring

(example next page)

We return face down cards to make all cards visible and count the number of bees and bumblebees on each column. The majority species on a column wins the Flower card that earns him one point.

If this flower is one of the 3 ones present on the Objectives card, it gains an extra point!

If there is the same number of bees and bumblebees on a column, the player with the most cards wins this column. And if there is still a tie, nobody wins the flower.

Player with most points wins the game.

You can make a second run, but this time it will be the bumblebees that will begin. You will add points in 2 rounds.

Osmia

The round is over and we made visible the cards that were face down.

Here Osmia are the majority on 2 flowers, allowing them to score 2 points. They are tied with the Bumblebee on the last column, but have one more card on this column, so also win this flower with one point. In addition, 2 of these 3 won flowers appear on their Goals card, so they have 2 points more, for a total of 5 points.

The Bumblebees predominate on the Willow and therefore Trèflells and thus mark 2 points for the 2 flowers. As they appear on their Goals card, they have 2 extra points for a total of 4 points.

Osmia win the round against the Bumblebees (4 pts.).

Bumblebees

~ Variations ~

Variant young Osmia:

You play exactly the same way, but without the Goals cards.

The variant of the old sneaky Bee :

Early in the game, the two players choose 5 cards of their set they give to the opponent. Each incorporates 5 cards received his own set.

The rule of the game is exactly the same, and we play the opposing cards like ours. As in the classic rule at the end of the round, it totals out all the bees on one hand and all the other bumblebees.

c'est bien plus sauvage !

Please note, a small difference, however: you can not discard an opponent's card!
